Here are ten reasons why your business should hire Small Business Sales Force to handle your Outside Sales activity.

1. Our business model provides small business owners with the ability to hire professional outside sales representation at a cost that is within your budget.
2. The business owner does not have to recruit, hire, train or manage these sales reps. We do that for you.
3. The business owner simply pays a commission on the overall sales volume and pays on a monthly basis.
4. Small Business Sales Force have already built up relationships with auto dealerships, high schools, auto repair shops, tire & rim shops, insurance agencies, real estate agencies, non-profit organizations and a variety of large and small companies located in Northern California. Currently we have relationships with decision makers at over 200 companies. This gives you instant access to over 200 warm sales leads.
5. With the help of Small Business Sales Force, the business owner simply creates specific sales goals and we do the rest.
6. Small Business Sales Force provides monthly sales reports and by contract agrees to meet quarterly sales goals.

7. We employ only professional outside sales reps.

8. Using a professional sales rep is the best way to prevent losing customers to competition.

9. Using a professional sales rep is the best way to win customers away from your competition.

10. Using a professional sales rep is the best way to target a new territory or promote a new product.

We look forward to having a serious discussion regarding your sales goals for 2006 and beyond.

Sincerely,

Thomas Burns, Principal Partner
